Coronavirus (COVID-19) Health Surveillance

As part of our Covid-19 response we are following the advice to undertake social distancing and guidance from the Health & Safety Executive (HSE) with regards to health surveillance.

This means we are assessing a range of health surveillances through questionnaire screening, either through our online platform Cohort or via paper screening, helping our clients comply with protecting the health, safety and welfare of workers.

Health Surveillance During COVID-19

For those that have maintained business functionality, or are returning to doing so following updated government advice, we are able to support you with a wide range of health surveillance assessments to maintain your compliance during the Coronavirus response.

At present the HSE are advising that for a range of risks businesses should conduct questionnaire analysis of employee health pending a return to face to face testing.

The topics covered include a wide range of occupational risks, such as but not limited to:

- Respiratory
- Skin
- Noise
- Hand Arm Vibration

Health Surveillance Questionnaire

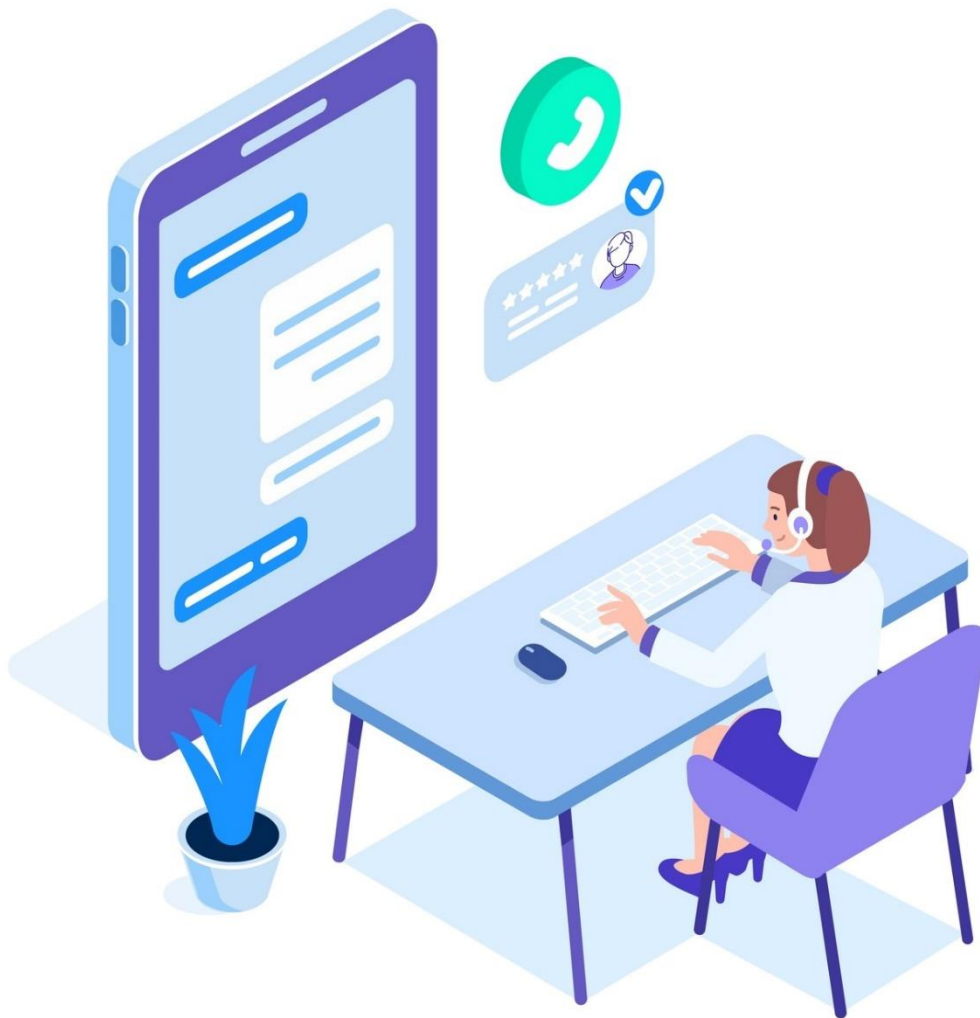

Dependant on your workforce surveillance can be completed digitally or by paper-based assessment, and allow interim assessment of staff who declare health concerns via telephone or video assessment.

For digital workplaces we simply require the names and e-mail addresses of the staff requiring surveillance.

Our administration team will then log each person on our web platform Cohort and issue questionnaires by e-mail.

For non-digital workplaces we can supply surveillance questionnaires for printing by you at site; that can be completed, collated and returned directly to us.

Health Surveillance Follow Up

Once we have the completed questionnaires back, we will assess and provide feedback on each case.

Reporting is conducted digitally to management and we will assist you in scheduling a telephone review with our clinical team for any staff who declare health issues.

Those requiring telephone assessment will receive a short call from the clinical team to discuss the nature of the health issue and assess it further.
